

Photo credit: André Natta

Birmingham will soon have it's own modern day mercantile as a recent string of downtown business openings continue. The sign covering the windows of 2320 2nd Avenue North seem to say it all. The business promises sandwiches, antiques, baked goods and home goods among other things (including one more location for free wifi access).

The one sign you can't read is the one in the door saying that we all need to stop by come mid-November to see what Urban Standard will be like.