If you're counting actual calendar days, it's day 80 of the Langford era in Birmingham, Alabama. Some would call it a little whirlwind-like, especially after Tuesday's \$90 million proposal announced for the Alabama State Fairgrounds on the city's west side. We're curious about what you think about how it's going so far...

We're hoping that you're actually willing to share your thoughts. We'd really love it if you clicked on the following link and posted your comments to the Great Room thread (with a tip of the hat to former New York mayor Ed Koch):

How's he doing after 80 days?
