

Well, it's starting to look that way. This was one of several signs located at the intersection of 8th Avenue & Arkadelphia Road earlier this afternoon.

The site listed on the sign currently points to an expired domain name that is waiting for renewal or deletion according to GoDaddy.com.

We'll have to wait and see. But it's starting to look very interesting. Bell would be the fourth person to officially declare his candidacy for mayor of Birmingham, Alabama. The election is in October with a runoff scheduled for November if necessary.
