Well, we've been working on a one-stop shop for folks to check out what's happening around our local web scene in a glance - a meta aggregator in the style of Alltop or PopUrls, but for Birmingham. Well, we're still working on ours but the folks that brought you Birmingham Pulse have already launched theirs. It's called Bhamlinks.com and currently contains feeds from our local media outlets, some of the city's more popular blogs and us. They're looking for feedback but since we don't know if they want us to share the contact information, we're going to ask you to comment here and let them know.
