

UPDATE: 8.1.2008, 2 p.m.

Apparently City Hall's feeling generous as the parking amnesty program is being extended until August 29.

Today's the last day of the City of Birmingham's amnesty program for folks with long overdue parking tickets.

Time's up on amnesty for overdue parking tickets.

If you think you owe money for a past due ticket or other minor traffic violation and you don't want to pay the fines associated with those tickets, you may want to visit the city's municipal court building downtown (directions - FYI: it will cost you to park your car in the lot there as well as around the building, so bring change) or pay on the city's website.
