

Screenshot of New TechBirmingham website.

For those in the city's ever emerging Tech community some folks have wondered about the current status of TechBirmingham. Well, the non-profit entity has relaunched their website this morning. It's been set up to be "a front door to our technology community and to give everyone an opportunity to learn more about TechBirmingham's many initiatives." So go on over and check it out.

Incidentally, you may want to see if you can still sign up for this year's TechMixer University on August 19, the largest technology event ever in the state of Alabama...