

We were just thinking... we've got to start finding ways to get more of you involved in the creation of this site. So, we're asking you to help us cover Art on the Rocks' opening night!

We know most of you will take pictures tonight while you're there. We also know that several of you have Flickr accounts. We figure, why not have you take some shots and tag the ones that you think we'll like. We'll then choose some and link them back to your Flickr account. (We thought you'd like that ) Here's how:

Just tag your images artontherocks2007 and bhamterminal and let us know that you want us to look at them by sending a note to info@bhamterminal.com. We'll post them tomorrow afternoon.

If you don't have a Flickr account, just send us your image (JPG and no larger than 400px wide) with your name and website (if you've got one) to the same e-mail as above.

We'll see how this works... (BTW - you still have some time left to buy tickets - click here to find out how).
