

That's been a popular question in recent weeks... it's not because we aren't wanting to put information up. It's because we're preparing to launch a new one. We wanted to make sure that we were offering the best services possible while living up to our tagline of being Birmingham's hub. It's our hope to launch our new system (and a couple other surprises) in two weeks. If you want to learn more and want to help us launch it, drop me a line.

In the meantime, we'd ask that you use our current calendar submission form or email/DM/call us using the many methods available on our contact page (though we'd suggest sending event submissions to timetable@bhamterminal.com). We'll do our best to post information about events on Timetable (which is also undergoing a redesign of its own of sorts - pardon the construction).
