

Photo: The Capitol prepares for the Inauguration of Barack Obama. acnatta/Flickr

Well, I've actually been in the Nation's Capitol since Friday evening - and I'm going to be here through early Wednesday morning. The city's been buzzing since I drove in during the evening rush and the energy is just continuing to rise as millions of visitors funnel into Washington for Tuesday.

I'll post photos as I can and I'll see what other stories I can find while I'm here . The Terminal will see what it can do about covering issues closer to home for the next few days as well. If you happen to be in DC, I'll be at SOVA Coffeehouse on H Street NE for a Flickr meetup Tuesday afternoon if you want to compare notes. If you're in town, leave a comment and I'll try to track you down too. Enjoy the rest of the weekend.