

We're hoping that you heard about last week's fundraising effort for BiciCoop on Valentine's Day. We're also hoping you've heard of this effort born in Birmingham's cycling community. If you haven't yet, you've got a chance next week (February 26 at 7 p.m.) to learn some more about what they do courtesy of a community interest meeting at Nomad Supply Shop (916 23rd Street South). This may finally be Birmingham's equivalent to Bikestations on the West Coast.

If you're still looking for more information, how about checking out this interview with co-founder Elisa Munoz courtesy of Bike Commuters from February 4 and the blog worked on by Elisa and Anna Carrigan, called Bike Skirt.
