

For the better part of two months I've been promising a return of our most popular column, Got Plans? When Christina signed off in October, we had a lot of folks wondering what we were going to do next. Some have even been going back and rereading old entries just to get their fix for the week. Enter Jason Donaldson (hint, he's the guy to the left of all of this text).

Today Jason, The Terminal's newest staff member, sets out to take Got Plans in a different direction and he's looking for your suggestions as well. Allow Mr. Donaldson to introduce himself to you this morning, and reintroduce you to Got Plans.