

Those of you that follow our Twitter feed saw that one of the only tweets we sent out today involved joining us for a conversation about Birmingham starting at 6:30 p.m. tonight. Well, here's a quick description of #bhamchat:

We wanted to see if folks wanted to talk about issues facing the city and the metro region. The topics will vary depending on what's been going on around Birmingham. We'll stay neutral on the issues and try to provide additional information as needed.

If you're on Twitter, please feel free to follow us at @bhamterminal this evening and join in on the conversation. We'll be creating a page on the site to help archive the discussions; you may also want to use <http://search.twitter.com> or <http://tweetgrid.com> and type in #bhamchat.