

Tonight at midnight is the deadline to offer your comments and opinions about the mock draft constitution created as part of the Alabama Citizens for Constitutional Reform \(ACCR\) Foundation's Mock Constitutional Convention.

The public comment period has been going on for some time now and the deadline is for your submission of comments considered in the document's reworking. Doc's Political Parlor is hosting the commenting period - click here to get started.

Doc also has some additional information about the goals of the exercise - and if you need incentive to check that link out, how about taking a look at the world's largest constitution \(that would be Alabama's\) digitally compared to the U.S. Constitution.
