

  been a fairly busy past few days so far as birthdays or anniversaries go.

Birmingham's newspaper of record, The Birmingham News, celebrated 122 years of existence yesterday. The Birmingham Genealogical Society turns 51 today while BhamWiki marks four years of documenting the Birmingham district today (they decided to celebrate on Saturday).

Oh yeah... this site, The Terminal, turned three yesterday. We haven't celebrated yet, though we're looking for help to figure out how. I figured the best way to honor that yesterday was to write a post over on the site that led to its creation, Dre's Ramblings \(the new one\) as opposed to the old one that still needs to come down (it has the same stuff after all)- and say thanks.

Photo: Octagon Clock. Pam Morgan/Flickr