

Unless you've been hiding out somewhere for the last few days, someone has to have already told you that the UAB Blazers will be playing host to last year's NCAA men's basketball tournament champions, UNC Chapel Hill, tomorrow evening at Bartow Arena (8 p.m. tipoff) for a men's postseason NIT quarterfinal matchup. If not, well now you have.

The Blazers beat NC State to advance while the Tar Heels defeated Mississippi State. If you were hoping for a ticket for tomorrow night, you're most likely out of luck. The game is officially sold out with some folks reselling them on eBay for as much as \$400 each (though no one's selling them on StubHub... yet). Plus, the game will be shown on ESPN.

There's already a final score prediction on UAB's student newspaper's website while the folks at al.com have already set up a live chat for tomorrow's game. Plus, earlier this afternoon there was word that UNC sophomore forward Tyler Zeller may not be available tomorrow evening, perhaps giving fans in Blazer Nation additional reasons for hope.