

The folks over at Birmingham, AL-based Luckie and Co. have $6,000 to give away to charity this holiday season – and they want your help to figure out how to divvy it up.

If you visit a special section of their website (click here to get there) before December 31, you can decide how the money is split up.

Your choices are puppies, children and creatives.

No, they're not going to tell you exactly who's getting the money until you place your vote (and we don't know what they are either) but it's definitely an interesting way to engage the community for the holidays.

Image: Screenshot from holiday.luckie.com