

The line outside of the Jefferson County Courthouse in downtown Birmingham is quite long this morning, extending deep into Linn Park. It is the last day of the month (and the first since the Jefferson County Commission decided to close satellite offices once again in order to save money), meaning people from throughout the region are making that last ditch effort to pay their tag renewals.

Don't forget that you can choose to pay your tag renewal fees virtually, though you'll be paying an online convenience fee of anywhere between $3-30 depending on how you choose to pay - and you won't necessarily get that tag renewal in time to avoid getting a ticket. There is word though that the county may have extended the deadline for renewing your May tags until June 30, ~~but we're waiting for confirmation~~ and it's been confirmed.

Thanks to Jacob Pigott for sharing his photo with us this morning.
