

As mentioned on this site early this morning , Councilor Valerie Abbott resubmitted her inclusion resolution that had been previously defeated.

Councilor Hoyt originally attempted to place the item on the consent agenda, but an objection was logged, causing the item to be voted on during the course of the meeting. When the item was called, it took maybe 30 seconds from the time it was read until the council voted 8-0 to approve the revised measure. A long round of applause followed from those remaining in the gallery of the council chambers.

Click here to view a copy of the revised resolution as it was submitted.