

This is from the email reminder for the event being held in the Linn-Henley Lecture Hall at the Birmingham Botanical Gardens:

Lenora Pate is a Democrat who lives in the city of Birmingham; Paul DeMarco is a Republican who lives over the mountain.

Yet they all agree Alabama needs to reform its century old constitution. Tomorrow they will meet on the best way to do this. Since they all hope for different outcomes, it should make for a lively discussion. Some people are angry that Over the Mountain Democrats has chosen to give various Republicans a forum. According to John Crenshaw, head of OTMDems, "We all need to work together on these issues. What is the point of continually preaching to the choir? How interesting would "Harry Potter" be without Lord Voldemort?"

So, get over the mountain and become part of a continuing discussion about the state of the state constitution here in Alabama. Presented by the Over the Mountain Democrats.
