

We're in the process of making some changes to our site in the coming days... nothing too major, just adding some additional pages that we need to and making some minor tweaks to our sections.

As part of the changes we figured it was time for us to join the world of Twitter.

<http://twitter.com/bhamterminal>

Our new Twitter address is also available on our contact page, to which we'll be adding some more ways to keep in touch with us as we go forward. If you want to be kept abreast of what's going on in the world of The Terminal on your cell phone or via IM, head on over to the service's info page on the topic.

Otherwise, just sign up and get ready for yet another way to know when you can come on over.